STUDENT HONORS/AWARDS (Student Projects I Supervised)

1. Red Wolf Works Signature Experience, Arkansas State University (2023)
  - a. [My student, Somer Shannon, worked on a project which was awarded a Red Wolf Works Signature Experience distinction. Somer’s project was based on a paper she wrote for the Women's Health course I taught in fall 2022. For her project, she re-designed brochures for the Arkansas Coalition for Sexual Assault (ACSA) to make the communication materials more inclusive and accessible to diverse audiences. ACSA accepted the designs and would be using them. Somer completed the project for the brochures under the guidance of Dr. Sarah Scott, who also helped to have the ACSA brochures translated into multiple languages. Dr. Sarah Scott and I are listed as the faculty members for Somer’s project.]

RESEARCH ACTIVITIES WITH STUDENTS

1. Taylor Barberis:
  - a. Taylor Barberis was a graduate student in our online MA degree program. I have worked with Taylor to revise a research paper she wrote for my graduate Communication Theory; the paper is titled “Family Vlogging and Children’s Health Information Through the Lens of Communication Privacy Management Theory” and has been submitted to the 2025 SSCA conference and also to a journal.

2. Somer Shannon:

- a. I have worked with Somer Shannon, a recent graduate of Arkansas State University, to improve a research paper she wrote for one of my courses. Somer and I presented the paper, titled “Inclusivity and Accessibility in Sexual Assault Support Organizations: A Case Study of the Arkansas Coalition Against Sexual Assault,” at the 2023 National Communication Association (NCA) Conference in National Harbor, MD.
